Later that night, Nancy learns that the painting has been stolen. She is determined to find out who stole the painting and return it to its rightful owner. Nancy begins her investigation by interviewing the people who were at the art studio when the painting was stolen. She learns that there were several people who had the opportunity to steal the painting, including a group of art students, a wealthy art collector, and a janitor.

Nancy follows up on all of her leads, and she soon begins to suspect that the thief is one of the art students. She confronts the student, who confesses to stealing the painting. The student tells Nancy that he stole the painting because he was desperate for money. Nancy is able to recover the painting and return it to the art studio. The mystery is solved, and Nancy has once again proven her skills as a detective.

Case Closed: Stolen from the Studio is a classic Nancy Drew mystery that will keep you guessing until the very end. Nancy is a smart and resourceful detective, and she is always up for a challenge. This book is perfect for fans of mystery and adventure.
