When Eva Schloss was just a young girl, her life was turned upside down by the rise of the Nazi regime in Germany. Her family was forced to flee their home and go into hiding. But their luck ran out in 1944, when they were betrayed and sent to Auschwitz concentration camp.

Eva and her mother survived the horrors of the camp, but her father and brother were not as fortunate. After the war, Eva and her mother made their way to England, where they started a new life. But Eva never forgot the horrors she had witnessed, and she dedicated her life to fighting against hatred and intolerance.

In 1988, Eva traveled to China to visit the site of the former Shanghai ghetto, where thousands of Jews had found refuge during the war. She was deeply moved by the stories of the survivors she met, and she realized that she had a unique opportunity to share their stories with the world.

Eva's book, Young Girl's Journey from Hitler's Hate to War-Torn China, is a powerful and moving account of her experiences during the Holocaust and her journey to find peace and reconciliation.

The book is a testament to the resilience of the human spirit and the power of hope. It is a story that will stay with you long after you finish reading it.
